BOOKIES OFFER BETTER PRICES

But Small Crowd on Hand Shows Little Desire to Lav Wagers.

Charleston, S. C., March 4 .- Better prices were offered to-day by the bookies at Palmetto Park, but the attendance was very small. The meeting will probably prove the poorest ever held here. Benedictina, at 9 to 1, was the longest priced horse to come home in front. He beat Gagnant, the favorite, by a head. Viley, in the fourth, snatched a victory from Frank Hudson, who looked like a winner up to a few lengths from the wire. Martre, the favorite in the third race, had little trouble in disposing of Strike Out and Tiny Tim. Summaries:

YANNIGANS LOSE Just One Run Needed in Ninth

In the Wake of the Game By GUS MALBERT

When Nero fiddled and Rome burned they were preparing for a ball game. Just about the time the "E" string broke on the old fellow's fiddle, as if to bar him from further embarrassment, somebody rushed into the fiddling chamber and shouted, "Slide, slide for your lives." The conclusion that the game we call national now was discovered in the years when they were hitting above .600 in the Death League is not original with us by any means. Digging for evidences of the actual existence of Mr. Nero and gathering a vast array of data, concerning certain fauna and flora, together with much other scientific information, the gentlemen of archaeological tendencies offered a report to the effect that sliding helps over the content of the effect of the effect that sliding helps over the content of the effect of the effec much other scientific information, the gentlemen of archaeological tendencies offered a report to the effect that sliding being one of the essentials of the modern game of baseball, and that by sliding alone could Mr. Nero and those allured by his fiddling avoid the flames all about them. Nero should be given the credit for having discovered the game as we know it to-day.

While some may regard this conclusion as reasonably farfetched—pardon being asked for the paradox—still we have a secondary to the capital City League will be held at $ o'clock for the same purpose.

while some may regard this conclusion as reasonably farfetched—pardon being asked for the paradox—still we must be willing to render unto Caeser the things which are Caeser's, and if Mr. Nero really discovered the game which is to make James Thorpe, original American, famous, we can forgive his musical ambitions, and even the destruction of Rome.

We right now refer to these same learned individuals the problem of establishing a direct line between Nero and Thorpe. It shouldn't be such a hard job, for, if we are rightly inand Thorpe. It shouldn't be such a hard job, for, if we ape rightly informed by the correspondents, James Thorpe is much given to fiddling, and is preparing for the endurance slide in the big league by watching the other fellow fo to it. When the war correspondents write of the Indian they invariably dwell upon his power of observation. He was by despit years of the state of the of absorption. He really doesn't need to go out on the field of battle. What he wants is some one to tell him what Drawings for Dwight Davis Inthe fellows actually do, and then he is ready to not only do what they do, but go them one better.

Jimmie Thorpe has fallen upon pleasant paths. It's a far cry from the backlots of the days when we were young, to the twentieth century training camp. The most serious finjury in the olden days was a stone britise caused, as some will recall, by too sudden contact with a hard substance, the next star athlete to be cant into professional oblivion by the Amateur Athlete Union. Horine's offense is that he is working for a San Francisco sporting goods house.

Jimmie Thorpe has fallen upon pleasant paths. It's a far cry from the backlots of the days when we were beld to-day. There are seven countries entered for the first time in the history of the twent. The draw resulted: the event. The draw resulted: A date for the final playing of the rounds out the aid of physicians, masseurs, dentists, bonesetters and experts of various kinds. The ones lacking are a veterinarian, who might be able to furnish eyes with hits in them. If the reports from the front read true most of the camps where the ball players have foregathered look more like a modern for the final playing of the rounds have been set as follows:

It's now the 5th of March. In fifteen days Steve Griffin will be shaking hands with the Colts of 1913. They will not have the advantages offered the men down South, but they will be given an opportunity to make good with Richmond fans, which is more important. There is no brand of fan anywhere in this wide world better than the Richmond kind. But no frills or furbelows go here. The man to make good is the fellow who goes out and gets 'em. They must carry the message to Garcia to be heroes in the Virginia League. On paper all look good. They'll be out on the green in a very few days, and the acid test will tell the real story.

John Raley writes that he is feeling fine. He thinks that the operation for appendicitis which he underwent last season took about ten years off his shoulders. "I will show Richmond some firstsacking this season, and, believe me, I am anxious to get to it. I have filled out and the dimples in my face are pack again." For the benefit of those who may be interested, Mr. Raley is a married man, and Mrs. Raley is very proud of her husband.

"Kayo" Brown Has Chance to "Come Back" SUMMER WEATHER

Knockout Brown, the rugged little New. York. scrapper. . According. to "Dumb Dan" Morgau, manager of the Knockout Brown, the little New Yorker who was knocked out by Joe Rivers in their encounter in Los Angeles on Washington's birthday, Brown is to be given a chance to redeem himself on the const. The young Dutchman will box Bud Anderson, the Vancouver lightweight, at Los Angeles, on March 15, and will later swap punches with Frankie Russell. The winner of this last bout is to be given a match with Rivers.

Preparation for Blues-College Wake Forest Defeated in Final Meet Saturday Going On at Lively Pace.

John Marshall High School will hold its final practice for the Blues-College track meet next Saturday at the Horse Show Building this afternoon at 4 c'clock. Only light work will be indulged in, as Coach Jones is determined to enter his men in the pink of condition, and is not risking any injuries that may arise from overwork.

This practice in the building in which they are to run will be a great help to High School, as the boys have learned to take the sharp curves with great speed and accuracy.

If there be strength in numbers, High school ought to develop a winning squad, or exactly twenty men answered to Coach Jones's call to arms. Some mighty good (cliows reported, and it was difficult to pick a relay team because of the good showing the coadildates.

tellows reported, and it was difficult to pick a relay team because of the good showing by the candidates.

The following were selected for the relay team: Sterns, Kleversahi, Wailerstein and Word. Craig will be seen in the dushes and Wallerstein in the hurdles. Captain Kleversahi is entered in the scholastic half-mile, and is looked upon by the Blue and White as a sure winner. Since the last meet at the Y. M. C. A. this husky lad has improved wonderfully in speed and in form, and with plenty of endurance there ought to be something doing after he toes the mark.

A special section will be reserved for the High School rooters, who will turn out in numbers with songs and yells to cheer their team to victory.

Game of Basketball Season, 19 to 15.

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 4 .- Amid jubilant cheering and wild yells from the 400 spectators, the University of North Carolina wound up its 1913 basketball season to-night by shaving a narrow victory from Wake Forest College. The final score was 19 to 15 to the credit of Carolina. With the university boys leading the scoring not in excess of five points at no stage of the game, the water babies held the Carolina rooters in anxious guspense until the whistle blew ending the evenly matched contest

Carrington led in the scoring for Carolina with three field goals,; the two Holdings and Hill scored two each for Wake Forest.

PLEASES CROWD

Good Card Furnishes Real Sport for Juarez Followers-Two Surprises Cash.

Juarez, March 4.—Summerlike weather and the excellent card served to draw out a big crowd this afternoon. Favorites fared badly, as five of the choices went down to defeat. The day was replete with surprises, the long shots figuring conspicuously in the winning column in a majority of the events.

in the winning column in a majority of the events.

The feature race furnished the best contest of the day and resulted in a triumph for Seneca, with Royal Meteor and Kootenay finishing close up. The winner came on the outside in the final drive and just managed to outlast Royal Meteor and Kootenay by the closest of margins.

Chapultopec, at 12 to 1, and Shooting Spray, at 20 to 1, were the chief surprises of the day. Summarles:

First race—six furlongs—Ask Ma (2 to 1), first; Azeura (8 to 5), second; Safraner (8 to 5), third. Time, 1:14. Katty Connor, Downland, Choctaw, Sprightly Miss, Loan Shark, Zenotek, Manus and Mollor also ran.
